

Jessamyn Lovell (they/them) is a gender-queer artist with French, Sicilian, Irish, and Choctaw heritage. They have a background in teaching and organizing in the non-profit art world and are currently a Principal Lecturer III in the Department of Art at the University of New Mexico on unceded Tiwa land. Jessamyn has taught across disciplines including Studio Art, Cinematic Arts, Art Education, and Arts Leadership and Business. They have been teaching for over twenty years at a variety of institutions and have received awards for their teaching. Jessamyn has received international recognition for their artwork including Dear Erin Hart, for which they found, followed, and photographed their identity thief. They are also a licensed and practicing private investigator as part of an ongoing artwork Do It Yourself Private Investigation \(D.I.Y. P.I.\)