

Joni Palmer
Visiting Assistant Professor
palmerjonim@unm.edu
http://palmerjonim.wordpress.com

Dr. Palmer earned her bachelor's degree in Science at Cornell University, with a double major in City and Regional Planning, and Design and Environmental Analysis. She received her MLA at the Harvard University Graduate School of Design, and completed her doctoral studies in Human Geography at the University of Colorado-Boulder.

For over 25 years her professional life has been a blend of practice and academia. Her professional practice experience in planning and design practice (working in both the public and private sectors) includes working for municipal, state and federal government, and private firms in Boston, Seattle and San Francisco. Her practice includes urban park design and campus planning, and arts and cultural planning.